Macmillan Says Nikita Revealed Demands on U.S.

West Knew What To Expect Before Meeting Took Place

LONDON (AP)—British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan disclosed today that Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev told him the day before the summit conference opened he would not negotiate unless the United States condemned its spy flights over Soviet territory, punished those responsible and agreed not to continue them.

Khrushchev repeated his demands formally at the conference opening the next day, bringing the summit meeting to a collapsing halt. But Macmillan's review in the House of Commons today was the first intimation that President Eisenhower, Macmillan and President Charles de Gaulle of France knew what they faced when they met with the Soviet Premier on Monday.

Didn't Shake Hands

This presumably was one reason why Eisenhower and Khrushchev did not shake hands or speak personally at the start of the meeting.

Macmillan said it is still too early to say whether the collapse of the summit conference represents "an isolated episode" or "a deliberate change" in Soviet policy.

"In either case we must be ready," Macmillan declared amid sympathetic cheers from all sides of the House.

In his first report to Parliament since returning from Paris, the Prime Minister said the breakdown of the summit talks confronts the world with a sterner situation carrying "grave implications, new threats and new dangers."

Of Eisenhower's announcement that reconnaissance flights over Soviet territory had been halted and his pledge that they would not be resumed, Macmillan said with considerable emphasis:

"I should perhaps say here that Mr. Khrushchev subsequently made some play with the fact that this assurance as limited to the President's own tenure of office. 'It was, however, made clear that this assurance was the most categorical and definite which any president of the United States could constitutionally give.'"

Macmillan as the first of the Western Big Three to give much of the inside story behind the collapse of the phantom summit parley.

Ike Leaves For Washington

Capital Prepares Rousing Welcome

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — President Eisenhower left for Washington today to report to the American people on the failure of his efforts to discuss peace with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

The President flew homeward after a 24-hour visit to Lisbon on his way back from the disastrous summit conference in Paris.

Eisenhower, in a brief farewell speech at Portela Airport, said his talks with Portuguese President Americo Tomaz and Premier Antonio Oliveira Salazar "have once again affirmed the spirit of friendship and good will that has always characterized the relation between Portugal and the United States."

Washington readied a rousing welcome for the President.

Eisenhower is to report to the nation on television and radio, probably early next week, about his unsuccessful efforts in Paris to sit down and talk things over with Khrushchev.

The summit conference never got under way because the President refused to knuckle under to the Soviet Premier's demand that Eisenhower apologize for American spy flights over Soviet territory and punish those responsible.

A crowd of about 2,000 at Lisbon's Portela Airport cheered Eisenhower as he warmly shook hands with President Tomaz.

At that moment an American in the crowd cried out, "I like Ike. God bless you Ike."

A smile lit up the President's face and he waved his grey hat. Then he climbed the stairs to his big jet plane, waved with his arms outstretched, and turned to enter the plane.

Premier Antonio Salazar, Portugal's dictator for the past 32 years arrived late for the departure ceremonies at the airport.

U.S. Fires Atlas Missile In 9,000-Mile Test

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — An intercontinental-range Atlas missile blasted off today on a hoped-for journey of about 9,000 miles past the tip of South Africa into the southern reaches of the Indian Ocean.

The giant rocket thundered into the sky from this missile test center at 10 a.m. If all went right, the over-water flight would last about 52 minutes. The Air Force as expected to announce results shortly afterward. The exact intended range was not revealed in advance.

The Atlas was geared for the longest surface-to-surface missile flight on record, exceeding the 7,760 miles claimed by the Russians for a rocket they fired into the Central Pacific last Jan. 20. The greatest distance flown previously by an Atlas is 6,325 miles.

If successful, the Atlas would: Reach a peak altitude of more than 1,000 miles and a top speed of about 17,000 miles an hour, just about the height-speed combination that might send it off into orbit.

Pass between the coast of Brazil and Ascension Island, the last tracking station on the Atlantic missile range.

Skirt about 100 miles south of the Cape of Good Hope.

Encounter heat of up to 13,000 degrees Fahrenheit on re-entering the atmosphere at a steep angle.

Khrushchev Not Anxious for Explosion Over Berlin Now

BERLIN (AP) — Nikita Khrushchev's mission in East Berlin appears to be to warn its Communist rulers to be careful. The Soviet Premier seems far from anxious for an explosion over West Berlin in the near future.

When Khrushchev blew up the four-power summit meeting in Paris before it could get started, his thunder made the storm seem close at hand. In East Berlin Thursday, it sounded more like an ominous rumble well beyond the horizon.

Khrushchev in a subdued mood — as he surely was Thursday — can be just as baffling as Khrushchev roaring insults and threatening mayhem. But there were a few hints dropped.

Little by little the world outside the Communist leadership may get an idea of the factors behind the fantastic performance

Russia Pushes U.N. Action

Security Council To Meet Monday

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko flies to New York today in pursuit of a U. N. prohibition against American spy flights that will be binding after President Eisenhower leaves the White House.

In a telegram to the U. N. Security Council Thursday night, Gromyko brushed aside Eisenhower's statement in Paris that U. S. flights over Soviet territory had been halted and would not be resumed.

Gromyko said Eisenhower could not promise the aerial spying would not be resumed after he leaves office in January and therefore the President's statement was only "a tactical step" taken "with the object of deluding world public opinion."

The Security Council meets Monday afternoon to take up the Soviet charge of U. S. aggression based on the U2 reconnaissance plane which the Soviets brought down on Soviet territory on May Day. Gromyko was due in New York tonight from Paris to represent the Soviets in the council debate.

The council meeting was shaping up as another Big Four foreign ministers' debate. British sources said Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd was expected to represent his government.

The French said if Lloyd came, Foreign Secretary Maurice Couve de Murville probably would attend. So, presumably, would U. S. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter, although the U. S. delegation Thursday night said it did not yet know his plans.

Asked for comment on Gromyko's new charge, a U. S. delegation spokesman referred to an earlier statement by the chief U. S. delegate, Henry Cabot Lodge, that the United States will meet all Soviet charges head on in the council.

Lodge, in Washington to confer with Eisenhower and Herter after their return today, said he thought the United States would be able to prove that the Soviet charge of aggression was "fallacious, and will be able to do so to the satisfaction of any impartial observer."

Dems Blast Handling Of Spy Flight Incident

CHICAGO (AP) — Democratic party leaders heaped criticism Thursday night on the Republican administration's handling of the U2 spy flight incident preceding the summit conference breakdown, and of recent disclosures of Soviet and United States espionage activities.

But they denied intent to mar national concord in a time of world crisis.

Adlai Stevenson, twice unsuccessful Democratic presidential candidate, said successful negotiations with the Soviets is impossible with the GOP in power.

"There is no question about national unity in time of crisis," he said. But "it is the duty of responsible opposition in a democracy to expose and criticize carelessness and mistakes."

Stevenson's remarks spiced a $100-a-plate dinner for Cook County (Chicago) Democrats.

The former Illinois governor said:

"We sent an espionage plane deep into the Soviet Union just before the summit meeting. Then we denied it. Then we admitted it. And when Mr. Khrushchev gave the President an out by suggesting that he was not responsible, the President proudly asserted that he was responsible."

"On top of that we intimated that such flights over Russia would continue. At this point if Khrushchev did not protest he would be condoning our right to spy—and how long could he keep his job that way?"

One Republican agreed in part with Democratic accusations.

Both men were still being held in the Mahoning County Jail this morning.

McLish was captured shortly after the $200 robbery and after a two-hour siege at Hargreave's home. Hargreave was taken into custody 28 hours later, hiding in a basement dwelling near Pine Lake Rd.

4 Injured Men, Sick Woman In Poor Condition

'Copter Tries Again To Pluck Group From Mt. McKinley

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — Another attempt to rescue five stranded climbers from the side of massive Mt. McKinley failed this morning when a jet helicopter developed mechanical trouble.

The 'copter had to turn back to Ft. Greeley for repairs after taking off from a 10,000-foot level base camp in what a radioed message described as "perfect weather."

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — A jet helicopter headed thrashed toward the high reaches of Mt. McKinley today in another desperate attempt to rescue a sick woman and four injured men.

The craft took off from a 10,000-foot level base camp in perfect weather, a radioed message said. The helicopter failed twice Thursday to pluck the five climbers from their perch high on the side of 20,320-foot Mt. McKinley, North America's tallest.

Inch Up Mountain

Meantime, a team of rescuers on foot inched up the tortuous face of the massive mountain as concern for the injured climbers mounted. The climb could take three days. Temperatures on the mountain Thursday night reached 15 degrees below zero.

Rescuers included 47 members of Seattle Mountain Rescue Council, shuttled by helicopter to a 10,000-foot high camp after flying 1,500 miles.

With the disabled climbers were four well and uninjured men, including a doctor. The sick woman's husband urged them to come out by helicopter if possible.

"Think of your wives and families," Peter Bading of Anchorage said.

But one of the climbers, Paul Crews, indicated they would try another ascent instead.

"If we're in good shape," he radioed back, "we'll try the North Peak."

Crews carries a small transmitting radio with him, as all mountaineers are urged to by rescue officials.

Scaled Highest Peak

Tragedy struck after the climbers scaled the continent's highest peak Tuesday in two separate parties. Five mountaineers from Anchorage reached the summit first and started down. A wealthy Oregon rancher, John Day, and three Seattle men made it a bit later.

On the way down, the party from the Pacific Northwest lost footing and fell. The Alaskans saw them and started back up.

Kennedy Expected to Gain 17 Convention Votes In Oregon

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Oregon ballots today in a presidential primary fired up by a battle between a favorite son and a hard-campaigning candidate for the Democratic presidential bid.

The election pitted Sen. Wayne Morse, who has served Oregon in Washington since 1944, against Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts, victor in all six other primaries he entered this year. Most people who did any predicting at all picked Kennedy to sweep up 17 more national convention votes in the last major primary contest of 1960.

Kennedy, out hustling at supermarkets, factories and street corners all day Thursday, allowed himself finally to concede he was "very much encouraged." Whether for buildup purposes or not, he previously had taken the line that Morse ought to win in his own state.

The two candidates closed their campaign with speeches and television appearances which pointed up the big debate between the two.

Morse declared Kennedy had no business coming into his state against a favorite son. He warned that a Kennedy victory would wreck the Democratic party here for years to come.

Kennedy told his listeners there was no sense in handing Oregon's vote at the Los Angeles convention to someone not running for the nomination. He noted that only one president (Warren G. Harding) has been elected in this century who didn't enter the Oregon primary.

Kennedy estimated his Oregon campaign cost about $50,000. Morse, who said he himself was spending less than $7,500, has accused the New England senator of spending "unconscionable" amounts of money to "buy the White House."

There was nothing to stop Democrats from voting for three other senators, or writing in any other preference. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, and Stuart Symington of Missouri also were on the ballot.

Only Morse and Kennedy cam-

Hargrove Attorney Charges Evidence Obtained Illegally

PAINESVILLE, Ohio (AP) — A defense attorney for Floyd E. Hargrove says he will fight admission of evidence he claims was secured while the 35-year-old truck driver was under the effect of a "truth serum."

Louis A. Turi Jr., one of two attorneys defending Hargrove on first-degree murder charges in the slaying of Charles R. Clark of Mentor, said evidence obtained while Hargrove was under the effect of the drug, sodium amytal, was "illegally and fraudulently obtained."

It was after taking the drug that Hargrove told authorities where to find the rifle they say he used in the Christmas Eve sniper slaying of Clark, a church and civic leader in nearby Mentor.

A .22-caliber rifle was introduced as evidence at Hargrove's trial Thursday. The state claims Hargrove threw the gun into a stream south of Mentor after firing the fatal shot into the kitchen of the Clark home.

Mentor fireman Rollin Scott was unable to identify the gun as the one he fished from the stream Jan. 4. Shown the rifle, Scott testified:

"It looks like it. But I couldn't say for sure."

Joseph Tholl, a Cleveland handwriting expert, testified he was certain that handwriting on laundry slips at the dry cleaning company for which Hargrove worked matched the signature on a card at a Chardon store for the purchase of a rifle Dec. 23.

The name on the card was Robert G. McClaren, which the stand contends was an alias used by Hargrove.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

The vice president of the United Sittes has just kicked the provisional president of the Teamsters, who is not yet the United States, right into outer political space. If this fall the big ballot says it's Dick Nixon against Jack Kennedy, Jim Hoffa will have no candidate. Hoffa can not devote equal hatred to both in truly non-partisan anger.

It has not been reported but Nixon has charged that Hoffa has been smearing the labor movement. And the vice president has more than suggested that it's time the rank-and-file clean out the Teamsters chief and others like him.

Nixon did this during his unprecedented lone-star teletelion interview. Along about 12:45 a.m. Monday, Nixon—with neither his opinions, his collar nor his temperament wiling—made it clear that no law could wipe the Hoffas out of labor.

He said it was the "responsibility" of the rank-and-file who really are the labor movement. And then Nixon appeared to place confidence in that rank-and-file.

HE WAS ASKED about labor in politics. Quickly he asserted he was for labor in politics all the way—just so long as no union spent the money of members on candidates opposed by the members.

He was for labor in politics so long as it operated on voluntary contributions.

He followed through by revealing that some opponents of labor had come to him asking for a law to keep unions out of politics. To those businessmen the vice president had said—don't object, don't ask for a law but get into politics yourselves.

There didn't seem to be any premeditation in Nixon's answers, for he knew nothing of the scores of questions thrown at him. The beads of sweat were from the lights and not from sudden need to piece policy together.

Nixon reflected the Republican party's point of view, it seemed to this observer in the studio that morning. I recalled, for example, and significant example it is, the action of GOP national chairman, Morton will not be a delegate to the Republican nominating convention. He had been named delegate-at-large from Kentucky. But he stepped down in favor of another—namely the research director of the Kentucky State AFL-CIO organization.

Replacing Morton will be Scott Cole, to whom the Kentucky labor leaders turn for bolstering and statistics in many of their drives.

OF COURSE, Chairman Morton will be at the Chicago convention. It simply happened that one day—April 23—during the Kentucky Republican State convention Herschel Hooe, a former official of the Louisville Building and Construction Trades Council, made a short speech.

Hooe got up that morning and called for more labor representation.

Sen. Morton then told this column: "In the selection of delegates in Kentucky we did have union representation in the original slate. We have some very active labor officials in the Republican party. They made the point that they should be represented more strongly in the delegation to the national convention."

"At the State Central Committee meeting following the state convention, I asked to be removed from the delegation and asked that a labor man be put on in my place."

"The chap who replaced me is regarded as one of the outstanding leaders in the state. When John Cooper and I ran for the Senate, we had Railroad Brotherhood and some Construction Trade Unions support."

MORTON MADE no effort to publicize the move, though it is as good news story as any which broke that day.

But inside the Republican party, he and his colleagues have been encouraging the naming of "rank-and-file" union officials as delegates to the convention.

This has happened in seven states—from which at least one United Auto Workers Union official is coming. There will be others from the Miners, the Rail units and the Construction Trades.

Nixon, Morton and company know the national labor leaders will automatically oppose them. But the Republican leaders are not giving up the "labor" vote by default. It seemed to me that was the meaning of Nixon's TV answers and Morton's stepping aside.

Spots Come and Go: Same Leopard

One of the best informed American reporters on Russia, William L. Ryan of the Associated Press, has written from Paris that Nikita Khrushchev is struggling to maintain his leadership of the international Communist conspiracy.

Ryan's judgment is backed up by an aside that Khrushchev made when he was piling insults on President Eisenhower—that the internal politics of the Soviet Union made it necessary for him to take this tough line. The Russian Premier is like some of our own politicians. They cannot stand alone. They are responsible to their parties. If they cannot carry their weight inside the party organizations, they are helpless outside the organization.

Khrushchev must be obedient to the Communist party inside Russia before he can command obedience either as an international leader of the Communist conspiracy or as a statesman. For reasons that will not be clear until they can be viewed by hindsight, the Communist party inside Russia is going through one of its periodic shake-ups. Khrushchev may be either a shaker or a shakee—or he may be a little of both.

THE APPARENT RESULT is that the conciliatory attitude he had been inclined to take—the peaceful co-existence line—is being ditched in favor of a sock-in-the-eye line. This has been made more plausible by the U2 incident than it could have been made without that blunder in timing and execution. But had there been no U2 incident, an incident could have been invented. Premier Khrushchev apparently had gone as far with jillity, friendship and apparent reasonableness the non-Communist world will grin and bear as his Communist co-conspirators were willing to let him go. If it now is going to be their policy to make him rant and bristle, the non-Communist world will grin and bear it somehow.

There may be a silver lining in the gloomy experience of wondering where the next blow will fall.

The worst thing that could have happened under the sunshine of Premier Khrushchev's smile would have been for the non-Communist world to forget that the Communist conspiracy aims to rule the earth eventually, catch-as-catch-can, by hook, by crook, by hammer, or by sickle.

There was the danger of being disarmed by Soviet conciliation. It was a very real danger that could be faced bravely only by those who were sure the non-Communist world was wearing down the Communist world faster than Communists were wearing down their intended victims. This was the philosophy of the late John Foster Dulles, who believed Communism was self-destructing in the long run, whereas the non-Communist world continually regenerated itself.

It was pointed out by skeptics that the Communist leopard might change its spots but would be dangerous. And that may be the most plausible explanation of what is happening.

THE HIERARCHY of Russia's one-party government—the Communists in the Kremlin—cannot let Nikita Khrushchev preach peaceful co-existence any longer.

It's not the party line in May 1960. Premier Khrushchev was so good at it that he may have trouble changing his act to accommodate their wishes. He seemed to enjoy himself in the role of chief co-exister.

Perhaps that was the trouble. He may have enjoyed himself so much he had begun to think there was no hurry about getting on with the overthrow of everybody who didn't knuckle down to the people who could pull his string whenever they were ready for a new leader.

Peace When There Is No Peace

The thought that the Cold War may return to its old deep-freeze status is a chilling one, everybody agrees.

It means returning to daily lives backgrounded by the imminent threat of a hot war that could be started by a strong-arm diplomatic maneuver, a bullying test of strength carried too far or a simple flare of personal temper.

This is the obvious misfortune of a full-fledged Cold War. But there is a more subtle, cynical aspect about it. It is the factor that makes skeptics put the label of insanity on any talk of some day achieving real world peace.

It is this: In many ways, there is more security in line-drawing enmity than there is in delicately balanced efforts to turn mistrust into trust.

This goes beyond the greater feeling of security Nikita Khrushchev may have among his colleagues back home when he is overtly mad at the United States instead of actively courting peaceful co-existence.

It is manifested in many ways. The people of West Berlin certainly do not relish the idea of East German control of their supply lines. But they have been on pins and needles the last 18 months because of the fear that other Western nations might somehow sell them out in the interest of easing world tensions.

The great debate in the United States over adequate defenses versus fiscal comprises an adequate defense system depends upon the sincerity of Nikita Khrushchev in his peace overtures. How to gauge that sincerity is a subject for debate in itself.

On the other hand, if Mr. Khrushchev openly shows the mistrust we suspect is there all the time, the debate over defenses becomes less urgent. In the security of knowing Russia hates the United States with deep passion, the necessity of an all-out defense effort at any cost removes a good deal of the cause for argument.

Peace depends upon friendship, and friendship depends upon trust. When trust is suspect, insecurity results. At that point, there is more security in hate than in friendship, more security in the deep-frozen Cold War than in the half-thawed Cold War.

This security sometimes found in hate has often frustrated the practical applications of the world's great religions, which are founded on love.

Once Over

If the dummy in Russian spaceship could talk: "Know what's wonderful about this? I'm doing it without a ventriloquist! ... Around the world every 95 minutes and without a stop for a coffee break! ... No other dummy can make that statement ... I get one kick out of this: In a day of a million puppet, dummy and ventriloquist acts, I am the first one without a master of ceremonies, a Joe Miller joke book and an audience including top scientists and astronomers!"

"Commercials? I'm doing only a pitch for Dr. Khrushchev's Orbit-Pep pills, guaranteed as an anti-ventriloquist or your money back."

"What, am I supposed to prove? ... Just that a wooden dummy can get up among stars? No. Edgar Bergen did that 25 years ago when he got Charlie McCarthy in orbit. He got two dummies in space when he put up Mortimer Snerd."

"In Bergen's act you couldn't see the ventriloquist's lips move. I'm the first dummy act in which you can't see the ventriloquist."

"Sure I've got gags. A recorded voice asks: 'Do you realize how dangerous it is to be 250 miles above the earth?' And I come back with 'Yeah, but it's not as dangerous as being ON THE EARTH these days.'"

"Then it asks: 'Who was that astronaut I saw you circling the globe with last night?' and I say, 'That was no astronaut; that was my pressurized cabin.'"

"Think of it, I'm the only dummy to upset a summit meeting, although it looks like some dummies are giving me a lot of competition. Whoops! I'm over New York now! How I wish I could see Variety's review of my act! Will

I be bored after a couple hundred trips around the earth? Of course, but IT'S NO WORSE THAN LIVING IN A TRUNK."

It puzzles fans to see him go to plate with no more spirit or emotion than an elderly gent putting on a pot of tea or looking for his glasses. Despite his baseball talents, he lacks fire and flame. Most players approach plate with gusto if not swagger. They project a threat. Mickey approaches it so listlessly he could be saying, "Who cares?"

It's fantastic that a youth out of Jenkins, Ken, and the Tennessee towns of Grundy and Johnson City should be top figure in world news. Francis Powers, held by Russia as a spy, is a mountaineer country type. He lacked distinction all his life. Yet his name may linger in history.

Discouragin' Isn't It?

Mr. K In U.S. Politics

By JAY G. HAYDEN

Events of the last fortnight, climaxed by Nikita Khrushchev wrecking the summit conference and withdrawing his invitation to President Eisenhower to visit Russia, highlights the way international events may affect the U.S. presidential election.

Particularly significant was Mr. K's suggestion that the summit conference be adjourned for six to eight months—that is, until the American election is over and a successor to Eisenhower named. Six months would reach beyond the Nov. 8 election day and eight months would extend beyond the inauguration of the new president—Jan. 20, 1961.

As against the suggestion now heard that Khrushchev is trying to influence the American election in his interest, it could be that he himself is sitting uneasily on his Soviet throne, due to his Camp David "conniving" with President Eisenhower, and is trying to erase the memory of that incident.

It is recalled that Khrushchev hastened from Washington to Peking, last September, in a seemingly unsuccessful attempt to appease the displeasure of Communist China. And the coldness between Russians and Chinese since then has increased.

KHRUSHCHEV always has kept one eye on U.S. domestic politics. An instance in point was the British-French-Israeli selection of the week just preceding the U.S. presidential election in 1956 for their abortive attempt to recapture the Suez Canal from Egypt. Almost certainly this timing was prompted by the belief that Eisenhower would be too hotly involved in his battle for personal political survival to prompt U.S. intervention.

The President, however, did not hesitate. In a nationwide broadcast, Oct. 31, he branded the Anglo-French-Israeli attack as "taken in error" and announced that the United States had gone to the United Nations Assembly in quest of a cease-fire, "with no veto operating."

The latter reference was to the fact that if the case had been carried to the U.N. Security Council, Britain, France or Russia could have defeated action by veto.

Indicative of the present comparable hazard it was widely noted that Khrushchev's disclosure that a U.S. spy plane had been shot down over Russia occurred within the week before the West Virginia primary—but this did not evoke comment from either of the contenders. Sens. John Kennedy and Hubert Humphrey. It is natural to assume that this omission was due to the uncertainty of the candidates as to what expression of opinion, if any, would help their election chances.

SEN. LYNDON JOHNSON (D-Tex.), however, lost no time in getting his word in. In a speech in the Senate last week he supported President Eisenhower to the hilt and he continued that attitude following the abortive first meeting of the summit conference.

Johnson has just told the Senate that Khrushchev's handling of the U2 spy plane case "was clearly an indication that he planned to make the summit either a sham or a forum for Soviet propaganda."

Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York may or may not have been influenced by current international developments in his announcement last Saturday that he would not even attend the Republican National Convention, much less accept any part in its deliberations. There have been rumors that Rockefeller was wholly surprised and greatly displeased by the confession that the U.S. government long had been sending spy planes over Russia.

It does not follow, however, that his voice will be wholly muted in the convention. L. Judson Morhouse, New York Republican chairman and prospective head of its 96-man delegation, declared that "Rockefeller should not be ruled out of consideration for the presidency—and should not rule himself out."

Morhouse's stipulation that the New York delegates should go to the convention uncommitted left a distinct impression that Gov. Rockefeller is at least holding himself open to take advantage of any opening which may turn up before the party nominations are made.

Nikita's Insults Cause for Severing Relations

It may well be asked why the United States government should continue diplomatic relations with the Soviet Union.

Every American ambassador is a personal representative of the President of the United States.

If the Soviet government refuses to do business with the President, how can the American government continue to keep its ambassador and his staff in Moscow?

And if the United States withdraws its ambassador, wouldn't it be logical to hand passports to the Soviet ambassador to Washington?

Routine business could be conducted through other governments' embassies, as is the case when no direct diplomatic relations are maintained.

Mr. Khrushchev has just said that for the next six or eight months he doesn't want to negotiate or do business with the United States.

He adds that if the kind of President he likes isn't elected in November by the American people, he will keep up the boycott and wait till the next election to see if a man who will do his bidding is chosen.

THIS SORT of comment, made by Mr. Khrushchev at his lengthy press conference in Paris, is the outburst of an egomaniac who happens to possess governmental power for the moment.

There is no rule in the book which says the American people must continue to maintain diplomatic relations with a government that has publicly insulted the President of the United States.

Indeed, the history of diplomacy shows that, for much less violent language or discourtesies by another government, many an ambassador has been handed his travel papers.

The hypocrisy of Mr. Khrushchev is illustrated by what he said at his Wednesday press conference about how he knew in September 1959, when he visited President Eisenhower, that there had been U2 flights over the Soviet Union's territory.

"I almost opened my mouth," said Mr. Khrushchev in referring to his knowledge of the U2 flights. But, he added, because the atmosphere at Camp David was so cordial, he said to himself, "why raise this matter with this friend then?"

But if the flights over Russia are as serious a matter as the Soviet premier now pretends, why didn't he at least send a note of protest to the Department of State through his embassy and say in 1959 all that he now says about the seriousness of any violations of Russian "sovereignty" by the flights of the U2 type of plane?

CELEBRARLY Mr. Khrushchev had a reason for stirring up a fuss now. First, he wanted to prevent Mr. Eisenhower from going to the Soviet Union this summer.

The Soviet Premier was afraid the visit might open the eyes and ears of the Russian people. For they would learn at first hand from the President of the United States some simple facts that the Soviet press and radio have kept from them by government order.

Mr. Eisenhower, it was feared, would tell about the way freedom of speech, freedom of worship and freedom of the press and radio and television are practiced in the United States and of the high standard of living enjoyed by the workers here.

How, for instance, could the Soviet government afford, without taking big risks internally, let Mr. Eisenhower speak on the television and radio for the same length of time that American stations gave to Mr. Khrushchev when he visited America last autumn?

So the easiest thing, Mr. Khrushchev doubtless thought, was to find a reason for cancellation of the trip. Once this had been publicized, he couldn't consistently fraternize with Mr. Eisenhower in Paris and carry on parleys with the heads of state.

Obviously the withdrawal of the invitation to Mr. Eisenhower was in itself a personal affront, and hence Mr. Khrushchev had to appear very angry about something and build up the plane incident to mammoth proportions.

What happens next? The Soviet Premier has declared all negotiations off for several months.

He pretends to be friendly to Prime Minister Macmillan and General de Gaulle, but he knows now that the West is united and will not be divided.

If he begins to show hostility to the British and French, it will be a sign that the Soviet Premier is getting ready to make a separate peace with East Germany and to complicate the European situation further.

IN THE EVENT, the Western Allies will have to decide whether they will submit to the expulsion of their armed forces from West Berlin—and then anything could happen.

Most likely it would be a period of high tension—a sort of war of nerves. Khrushchev, like Hitler, is capable of carrying his bluffs to extremes. That's why there are fears that a one-man dictatorship may again plunge the world into a body conflict—perhaps a so-called "limited" war. As the chances of such a contingency become a subject of worldwide discussion, it seems logical to assume that the Russian people will exercise a restraining hand and that the peoples in the "satellite" countries may find it opportune to voice their protests by means of public demonstrations such as occurred in 1956 in Hungary.

Meanwhile, Republicans and Democrats are uniting to present a common front to Khrushchev. If diplomatic relations are severed, it will be done only after consultation with the leaders of both parties in Congress.

It Helps To Be Crazy

By TRUMAN TWILL

In answer to the question everybody's asking, I do not believe there is going to be war. But what I believe must be discounted.

I did not think there was going to be World War II and bored some of my friends stiff by carrying on at great length my argument supporting this opinion.

One of the mistakes I made was to give a friend of mine who was working on a newspaper in the Philippines the benefit of my logical deductions. To this day, the deductions still seem logical.

The Japanese, I pointed out with the certainty of ignorance, could not go berserk because they were methodical little people who had outdistanced primitivism far enough to see why they could gain more by staying in bed with the people they didn't like than by jumping out of bed and starting to throw rocks.

There would be no logic in the Japanese government's going to war, I argued with all the fervor I could muster. But I made the mistake of giving this friend in the Philippines the benefit of my remote wisdom and he replied something to this effect:

Dear Knot-Head: What you have not taken into account is the fact you are not a Japanese and therefore cannot know how a Japanese thinks. These little devils have had their minds set on knocking us off for years and they are ready to move. They already have infiltrated the Philippines. Regardless of what you say, I am coming back to the United States. He came back in time to miss the invasion of the Philippines in 1941.

Thereafter, I had a clean record until war broke out in Korea. I said that wouldn't happen either—and again I made a mistake. I said it to the mother and father of a drafted son who was in the U.S. occupation army in Korea. When the United States pulled out of Korea, making it easy for the North Koreans to start their caper, the son started home, to the great joy of his parents. But I assured them heartily there would have been no danger anyway, because it made no sense to think North Korea would tie into South Korea when all it needed to do was sit tight and let South Korea wither on the vine; that is, the tip of the Korean Peninsula. So I was wrong about that one, too.

Nothing will be said here about the way I missed it on World War I, the Spanish-American, Civil, French-Indian and Revolutionary wars. In every case the thing that fooled me was the same.

It didn't cross my mind that decisions to start wars are not based on logic. That's what I would try to do if I were deciding whether to fight a war. I'd call in the people who knew the wrinkles, comb the knowledge out of their brains and go into a brown study until I had figured out that the odds were against me. Then I'd notify the militarists to unpack their duffel bags and start being true to the girls they were figuring on leaving behind them.

There would be no war. That isn't the way it's done, obviously. Wars are not started by logical decisions. They are started because men are sore, angry, desperate, stupid, even insane. I've always thought Hitler was an outright mental case, likewise Mussolini. It never has seemed funny to me when inmates of insane hospitals thought they were Napoleon, because the gink, himself, thought he was Napoleon—and no one laughed about that.

So don't take it seriously that I don't believe there is going to be war. I never hit a war on the nose yet. To guess right you'd have to be as crazy as the people who start wars, and no one wants to be that crazy.

Obnoxious Remarks

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Remarks that a lifeguard gets tired of hearing:

"Ooh, look at the nice man's sweat big muscles. Is it all right if I touch them?"

"He's been here five summers, and I haven't seen him wet yet. I don't know whether the guy's allergic to water—or has simply forgotten how to swim."

"Ask him for a date. Mabel. A guy with his muscles ought to be strong enough to pick up a dinner check."

"Is it true that if a girl isn't young and pretty, you just go ahead and let her drown?"

"Hey, Joe, wake up—the sun's gone down."

"How do you life guards live through the winter — by fishing through holes in the ice?"

"I think there's a shark out there. Would you mind swimming out and taking a look?"

"No, I wouldn't say he was overdeveloped all over—just from the neck down."

"Me Jane. You Tarzan?"

"Since they started allowing Bikinis here, I haven't seen him look at the ocean once."

"I want that little brat arrested this very minute. He deliberately stepped on my daughter's sand castle."

"Every time you blow that whistle you wake my husband up. Do you have to play traffic cop all day long?"

"All right, Buster, I'm not paying you just to sit up there and pose. Grab a rake and help me get some of the orange peels off this beach."

"Would you mind smearing this sunburn lotion on my back. I want to make my husband jealous."

"My little boy dropped his hot dog in the sand. Will you let him sit up there with you so he'll stop crying?"

"Yeah, but take away those muscles and what've you got? It takes more than a suntan to get ahead in Wall Street."

"He was the only accident case here last year. He fell off his platform when a blonde busted her shoulder strap."

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: Last year my husband became acquainted with a fast-talking promoter. I was suspicious of the man from the start. He yakked a mile a minute and tried to impress us with how rich he was. My husband had to pick up the dinner check every time we went out because the big shot never got around to cashing a check.

Against my advice my husband gave him $7,000 which was our life's savings. The fast talker disappeared into thin air and my husband didn't have a single thing down on paper. His Memphis address turned out to be a phony.

This incident has made me very bitter. When I think of all the things I could have bought for myself and the children with $7,000 I burn.

I'm seriously considering putting homes and taking a course in practical nursing so I can earn my own living and tell him to go his own way.

When I told my husband of my plan he looked at the floor and said it wasn't fair to him or the kids. How fair was HE to do what he did? I need your advice. —BURNT.

Dear Burnt: What price spite! Isn't it enough that the four-flusher fleeced you out of $7,000? Are you going to let him break up your family, too?

The money is gone. Now forget it. It was foolish of your husband to be taken in like a yokel at a county fair but it's ancient history now. Stick by the guy. He really needs you now. Forget about a separation, foster homes and the rest of the nonsense. It's times like these that separate the women from the girls.

In Any Language, 'No'

Dear Ann: I'm 33, well-educated and have never been married. This letter may sound a bit preposterous but I am on the level and need help from an objective person who doesn't know me.

I've always been interested in languages. I enrolled last year in an adult education course. The teacher is a charming, cultured woman in her late 50s. We've grown very fond of each other and our personalities are perfectly attuned.

Could this marriage last? My friends say no. Surely a mature relationship would stand a better chance than these teen-age romances based on physical attraction. What do you say? —MISTER X.

Dear Mister X: Elle est trop vieille pour vous. Si izi tsu alt fu sie. Es demasiado vieja para tu. Translated, Brother, "She's too old for you."

En-Lightened

Dear Ann: Please answer in the paper. It would be embarrassing if my mother got hold of a letter from you and found out I had written about this subject.

I am a high school sophomore and have recently started to date. Every time I take a girl home after a date, her porch light is on.

Should I kiss her goodnight in the car, or under the porch light? This is no joke. Your advice will be greatly appreciated. —YOUNG AND IGNORANT.

Dear Young and Ignorant: I cast my vote for the porch—and the light.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Salem News, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

A MULTIPURPOSE vehicle such as the one sketched here would be necessary on the moon for setting up living quarters and other anticipated construction tasks.

U.S. ARMY ENGINEERS think temperature, radiation and vacuum on the moon's surface could be accurately reproduced in a chamber like this for test purposes.

Men on The Moon-and How They'll Live

Though it may be years before human beings set foot on the moon, methods of living and working on the lifeless satellite of the earth are already being studied. These drawings illustrate some of the ideas proposed by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers. In a decade they may be actual photographs.

Khrushchev

question of West Berlin, an isolated island of 2,200,000 people 110 miles inside Communist-ruled territory, cannot be settled at a conference table. That may have been one of the several reasons why Khrushchev felt impelled to wreck the summit meeting.

Had Khrushchev negotiated, he would have met a stone wall of opposition to his proposals to turn West Berlin into an international city and to have all powers involved in the war against Nazi Germany sign peace treaties with Communist East Germany, as well as with West Germany. That would have given the East German Communists a claim on West Berlin.

Had Committed Himself

On that issue, at least, Khrushchev would have come from a Paris showdown empty-handed. And he had committed himself to the statement that if the Western allies would not go along with his proposals, the Communists would proceed on their own. However, there has been no showdown on the issue, and Khrushchev, while speaking piously of the possibility of a new summit meeting many months from now, can safely drag his feet on the German questions.

Stepanic's Ekes 4-3 Win Over Shaffer's In 10 Innings

Deming Blasts Old Dutch 6-1

Purity Dairy Bows 7-4 to First Salem

By DICK BRAUTIGAM

Veteran hurler Glenn Mercer outdueled Shaffer Ford's ace, Bruce Feicht, as Stepanic's Tavern opened its Class AA Softball season Thursday night at Kelley Field with a 10-inning, 4-3 victory. Deming Co. pounded out 11 hits to open with a 6-1 win over Old Dutch in another Class AA game. In the only Class A game played last night, First Salem Corporation made it two victories in a row with a come-from-behind 7-4 win over Purity Dairy.

Consecutive singles by Wright, Wilson and Criss after one out in the 10th inning plated the run which gave Stepanic's its win over Shaffer Ford.

STEPANIC'S appeared to be down to its last out in the ninth when Ferguson doubled home Feicht who had reached base on an error to open the inning. The game was tied 2-2 after the regulation seven innings.

Both hurlers went all the way. Mercer yielded eight hits and Feicht, only seven. Mercer fanned six batters and walked two while his opponent struck out seven and didn't walk a man. At one point in the game, Feicht retired 16 Stepanic batters in a row.

Bill Ehrhart tossed a six-hitter in Deming's victory over Old Dutch. The winners touched Old Dutch pitcher Hank Miller for 11 hits, including three straight singles by catcher Lee Hahn.

OLD DUTCH COLLECTED its only marker in the fifth on a lead-off single by Dulan, a fielder's choice and another one-base blow by Crawford. Deming's scored in every inning but the first.

First Salem exploded for six runs in the bottom of the sixth to overcome a 4-1 deficit and defeat Purity Dairy 7-4.

First Salem hurler Bill Kyser opened the fireworks in the seventh with a home run. There were three other extra base hits in the inning, a triple by Arndt and doubles by Cartwright and Perkins.

Pitcher Larry Moulton had given First Salem only two hits and one run through the first five innings. He was relieved by Don Moulton before he could get a batter out in the sixth.

Ohio High School Basketball Attendance, Receipts Drop

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio high school basketball tournament attendance and receipts took a drastic drop this year—although the state title playoffs set a record for both.

Grant to Face Boston In Game Tonight

CLEVELAND (AP)—Jim Grant will make his first start of the season tonight when the Cleveland Indians open a two-game series with the Boston Red Sox. Appearing in four games in relief, he has an 0-1 record.

Billy Monbouquette, who has hurled a one-hitter against the Detroit Tigers, will be on the mound for Boston. He has won three games and lost two.

The Red Sox are the only team in the league the Indians haven't met this season. Their two games in Boston May 8 and 9 were rained out.

Sunday the Indians play a doubleheader with the Baltimore Orioles. They conclude their current home stand with night games against Washington Tuesday and Wednesday.

Jim Perry is scheduled to face the Red Sox Saturday. Gary Bell and Wynn Hawkins take the mound Sunday.

Dick Stigman, rookie left-hander, will be in the bullpen for the remaining games here.

"He has done so well in relief I hate to start him," Manager Joe Gordon said Thursday. "This way, he can pitch to a couple of hitters every day if I need him."

Gordon said the Tribe has not fully realized its potential because "too many players are trying too hard."

"I suppose it's only natural," he said. "There are a lot of new men on the team and they're bound to be pressing just to make a good impression."

Bubba Phillips, batting only .176, will be replaced at third base tonight by Ken Aspromonte, acquired from Washington last Sunday.

Snyder Bats In Four Runs As A's Defeat Orioles 7-4

Bill Veck screamed and Frank Lane scoffed at the latest of the New York Yankees-Kansas City A's trades. But pity poor Paul Richards, whose Baltimore Orioles were stopped short of a tie for the American League lead by the swap.

Speedway 45 Season Will Begin Sunday

The 1960 racing season at Speedway 45 gets underway Sunday. The track, located three and a half miles south of Salem on Rt. 45, has been banked and enlarged to an eighth of a mile since last season when area track rabbit racers competed there.

This year larger carts also will be able to run at Speedway 45. Twin engine races will be driven only by persons 18 years of age or older. There will be other races for children.

Time trials Sunday start at 12:30, with the first race set for 1:30.

FELLER KSU SPEAKER

Bob Feller, former Cleveland Indians pitcher, will be the speaker at Kent State University's annual Spring Sports banquet June 2.

The banquet, which will be open to the public, will be held in the Student Union's Portage room at 6 p.m.

Pirates Whip Cardinals 8-3

Cubs Score 4-2 Win Over Phillies

By The Associated Press

The Pittsburgh Pirates, overcoming thin pitching with their bats, have battled back for a half game lead in the National League race as they open a three-game series with San Francisco's second place Giants tonight.

The Pirates, lacking a sturdy No. 3 and 4 pitcher behind ace Vern Law and Bob Friend, rapped 13 hits, picked up four unearned runs and whipped St. Louis 8-3 Thursday night. That broke a tie for first with the Giants, who were rained out at Milwaukee.

Cincinnati skipped past Milwaukee into third place, four games back, with a pair of two-out, Angeles easonrdulcmfwybvvgkqj ninth-inning runs that beat Los Angeles 5-4. Chicago's Cubs defeated Philadelphia 4-2 and jumped over St. Louis into sixth place.

In the American League, Kansas City scored five runs in the eighth and beat Baltimore 7-4. That dropped the second place Orioles a full game behind Chicago's White Sox, whose game with Boston was rained out. No other games were scheduled.

Southpaw rookie Joe Gibbon (3-1) won his first as a starter for the Pirates, but needed Fred Green's relief help to do it.

The Cubs, topping the NL with a .283 batting average, bagged all their runs before the Cards got started. Hal Smith knocked in three, two with a second-inning homer off loser Ray Sadecki, a 19-year-old lefty making his major league debut.

Cincinnati clipped the Dodgers 5-4 for the second night in a row and now has a 4-0 season edge on the world champions. Vada Pinson's triple capped the winning ninth after Elio Chacon got it started with a punt that stayed fair when Dodger third baseman Jim Gilliam let it roll. Chacon stole second and scored on Eddie Kasko's single. Jim Brosnan (1-0) won it, pairing with Joe Nuxhall for a four-inning, one-hit shutout in relief of starter Cal McLish.

Loser Sandy Koufax (0-4) went all the way for the Dodgers, blowing a 4-0 lead after piling up eight of his 10 strikeouts in 4 1/3 innings.

The Cubs broke a 2-2 tie at Philadelphia in the seventh when ex Phil Richie Ashburn tripled and scored on Bob Will's foul fly to rookie right fielder Ken Walters. Bob Anderson (1-1) won it with a five-hitter and his first complete game of the season. Robin Roberts (1-4) lost it.

KSU Tennis Team Seeks MAC Title

The Kent State University tennis team, enjoying the best season in the history of the school, goes after the Mid-American conference championship today and Saturday at Ohio University.

Coached by Karl Chesnutt, the team has a 12-2 record with the regular season finished. The old record for victories was 10, set in 1958.

The Golden Flashes will probably be second seeded behind defending champion Western Michigan in the MAC tourney. Western handed Kent one of its defeats early in the season. The Flashes have defeated every other Mid-American conference team.

LEBANON, Ohio (AP) — Gold Nugget reeled off the fastest mile of Lebanon Raceway's harness race meeting Thursday night as he won the featured Class C-2 pace in 2:04 4/5.

It also was the fastest mile Gold Nugget has paced in two years.

Driven by Marc Ferguson, Gold Nugget, owned by Harold Boring of Shelbyville, Ind., led all the way and paid $16.60.

Ferguson also figured in a $141.20 daily double payoff. He was at the reins of Mike Abbey which won the Class 28 maiden pace, the second race. Frisco Noon won the Class 30 trot first race.

No. 25—An Extension

By JIMMY DEMARET

The accompanying illustration gives you a rear view of the stance for a tee shot looking directly down the line.

Notice particularly the position of the feet on the intended line, the flex of the knees and the way the slightly-opened left hip has a tendency to open the general position of the body from the hips down.

This picture also illustrates the generally straight line from the waist up to the back of the head. It also brings out the comfortable relationship of the arms and hands to the club, in suggesting that the arms and hands for an extension of the club.

This is an alert position of good discipline with tension enough only to make the stance firm.

The arms are close together, elbows consequently quite close to the hips and under, thus tending to keep the inside of the forearms comfortable facing up.

This tendency physically encourages the feeling that the arms, hands and club are set to go to work as a single controlling and powering unit.

Friday Night Fights to End At Garden

NEW YORK (AP) — Since the days of Tex Rickard, Friday night has been fight night at Madison Square Garden. Tonight the series ends.

The Friday network (NBC) radio and television series will continue through June 24 in other arenas. They will originate in Las Vegas, Boston and St. Nicholas Arena in New York. But this is the last of the Friday fights in the Garden.

When the fights resume on a regular basis in October, the TV series will be moved to Saturday night on a different network (ABC). In between, there may be a couple of fight shows in the Garden off TV on Monday or Tuesday nights.

The Garden finale is a heavyweight bout between Eddie Machen, the No. 4 contender, and Alex Miteff, who is rated No. 6 by Ring and No. 7 by the National Boxing Assn. The 10-round match will start at 9 p.m. as usual, there will be two judges and a referee scoring by rounds, using a supplementary point system under New York rules.

Machen was sailing along unbeaten in 25 fights, until he ran into Ingemar Johansson's right hand in Göteborg, Sweden, Sept. 14, 1958. As a result of that first-round knockout, Johansson vaulted into a title fight with Floyd Patterson last June and Machen had to start all over again. Machen won seven last year, lost to Zora Folley Jan. 18 and stopped Billy Hunter in nine rounds Feb. 26, in his last outing. His record is 32-2-1.

Miteff, from Argentina has a 22-5-1 record. However, he has been stopped three times by Mike DeJohn, Willie Besmanoff and Hunter.

30 Drivers to Race At Indianapolis

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — About 30 drivers will ride the ragged edge of disaster at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway Saturday and Sunday, pushing for highest possible speeds in attempt to qualify for the $350,000 Memorial Day 500-mile race.

Only the 33 fastest cars in two weekends of trials will get the starter's flag a week from Monday. Twenty-two were qualified last weekend out of 63 on hand at the old track.

With practice and tune-up runs limited most of this week by rain and wind, there appeared to be little chance that anybody would break the 10-mile qualifying record of 146.592 miles an hour, set last Saturday by Eddie Sachs of Allentown, Pa., in a new A. J. Watson car owned by Al Dean of Long Beach, Calif.

Also solidly in the lineup were former winners Roger Ward, Indianapolis, and Jimmy Bryan, Phoenix, and a string of hard-driving veterans including Jim Rathmann of Miami, three times runnerup in the 500; Dick Rathmann, Chicago; Johnny Thomson, Boyertown, Pa., and Tony Bettenhausen, Tinley Park, Ill.

WINS FEATURE RACE

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Pulling past favored Reb-Misha in the home stretch, Mammias Girl won the feature eighth race Thursday at Beulah Park.

Ridden by Harry Holcomb, the winner went the mile and 1-16 over a fast track in 1:46 3-5. She returned $9.60 to win.

Mammias Girl is owned by her trainer, W. R. Ruff of Lancaster, and W. F. McKenna of Lexington, Ky.

Cerv Re-Acquired By Yanks In Trade

CHICAGO (AP) — Slugger Bob Cerv will be in the New York Yankee lineup for the first time in four years when the Bombers meet the Chicago White Sox tonight.

Cerv was re-acquired by the Yankees Thursday in a trade which sent third baseman Andy Carey to Kansas City. Originally, the hard-hitting outfielder was sold by the Yankees to Kansas City after the 1956 season.

The Cerv-Carey deal was the 16th between the Yankees and A's since the club was moved from Philadelphia to Kansas City. In all, 61 players have been involved in the deals which have brought such snide remarks to the effect that the A's are New York's No. 1 farm club.

Neither Frank Lane, Cleveland general manager, nor Bill Veck, president of the Chicago White Sox, were surprised by the deal nor was either embittered.

Both Lane and Veck in the past have criticized the wholesale dealing between New York and Kansas City.

Reds Nip Dodgers 5-4 To Move Into 3rd Place In League

Pinson Drives In Winning Run

Cincinnati Invades St. Louis Today

CINCINNATI (AP) — "It's the second time we've let 'em come back from the grave."

That was the disgusted comment Thursday night from Los Angeles Dodgers coach Bobby Bragan after the Cincinnati Reds had scored twice in the ninth inning to whip the world champions, 5-4, and move into third place in the National League.

The night before the Reds twice came from behind to tie the score and then won in the 12th by the identical score.

"We're not having very good luck, are we?" was the more philosophical comment from Manager Walter Alton whose Dodgers now have an 0-4 record against Cincinnati for the season.

A triple high off the scoreboard by Vada Pinson drove in the winning run with two out in the ninth. Just before that Eddie Kasko had singled in the tying run.

The grinning Pinson said he didn't know what kind of a pitch it was that he hit and he added, "I don't care much."

"All I know is that it hit the scoreboard and Kasko scored from first base," he said.

It was a bitter defeat for Sandy Koufax of the Dodgers who now hasn't won a game since last Aug. 31 and is 0-4 this season.

Through eight innings he had only one bad frame as he allowed the Reds only six hits and struck out ten. He got the first man out in the ninth and then everything began to fall apart.

Elio Chacon beat out a bunt down the third base line and stole second after Gus Bell filed out. It was then that Kasko rapped his game-tying single and Pinson hit triple.

"What's the difference what I threw to him," Koufax said of the pitch to Pinson. "It was that Chacon and that Kasko. They did it."

Jim Brosnan, who followed Cal McLish and Joe Nuxhall to the mound for the Reds, picked up his first victory of the season.

The Dodgers got all their runs off McLish. They tallied one in the second on a walk to Norm Larker and a double by Frank Howard.

They added their last three in the fourth. A double by Larker and a walk to Howard started things. John Roseboro singled Larker home and Howard also scored on a throwing error by Tony Gonzalez. Roseboro then stole home.

'The Hawk' Is Determined Competitor

Tedious Work Holds Secret Of Wynn's Winning Ways

(Second of 3 Articles)

Wynn Hawkins, the rookie pitcher who has made it big with the Cleveland Indians this season, is a determined fellow.

He set his goal early in life and has worked tediously to conquer all obstacles in the path of success.

He will not compromise when it comes to work. The hard work is beginning to pay dividends.

"Wynn always has been a serious boy," said his mother. "His coaches and school teachers used to say that he matured early for his age. But he's just serious by nature. His father always has been a serious person."

"He's also a dedicated boy," his mother continued. "I believe his father instilled the desire to become a good athlete and always strive to improve. Wynn always listened well and took well to instruction." He still does.

"It's been all or nothing for him when he does anything. He goes all out no matter what he may tackle. For instance, he began playing golf when he was 14 years old. When he plays golf, he plays all day long. It doesn't matter whether it's raining or snowing."

"And he never complains. He never has an unkind word for any of his managers or coaches," she concluded.

WYNN'S ATHLETIC career has been one of stardom since he was a pint-sized fellow. He was throwing no hitters while playing American Legion ball. And he was setting records in basketball as a freshman at New Waterford High.

On the basketball court, Wynn was quite a sensation. His senior year at New Waterford, he set a season record of 524 points for 14 games, which comprised the season schedule. He averaged 37.4 points per game.

His individual high was a torrid 65 points which he scored that same season (1953-54) as New Waterford defeated Springfield Twp., 81-76.

As a freshman he scored 267 points. As a sophomore he pumped in 319 in 14 games and added 491 in 17 games for a 28.8 average in his junior year.

In addition he was a whiz on defense and the team's top rebounder at 6-feet-3.

Entering Baldwin Wallace College, Wynn went on to set a new school scoring record of 1,392 points. It was broken just last season by Howard Wright.

"THE HAWK," as he was nicknamed in college, was ruled ineligible his senior year because a new opponent appealed to the NCAA for a ruling on his pro status as a baseball player. If he had been permitted to play his senior year, undoubtedly the record would have been increased beyond reach for some time.

In the President's Conference, of which B-W is a member, athletes are permitted to participate in sports as long as they are not professionals in that particular field.

In other circles, a pro player in any sport is barred from participating in collegiate sports.

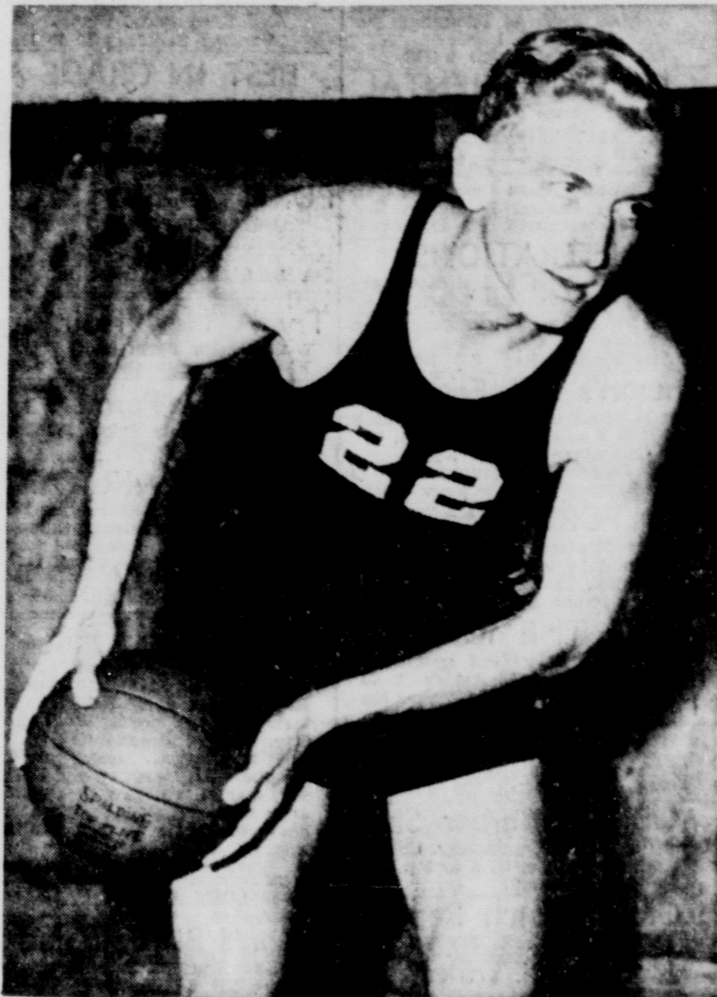

Wynn needs only one more quarter to receive his degree in business administration. He hopes to complete work toward his degree during the off season.

Hawkins excels in just about every sport which he tackles. He's a good golfer and plays regularly during the off season. He squeezes in as much golf as possible during the baseball campaign.

He shoots in the 70's.

THE DAY BEFORE Wynn was to pitch his first major league game, several of his teammates decided to take him out golfing to get his mind off baseball.

named in college, was ruled ineligible his senior year because a new opponent appealed to the NCAA for a ruling on his pro status as a baseball player. If he had been permitted to play his senior year, undoubtedly the record would have been increased beyond reach for some time.

"Golf relaxes me," he insists. "It also keeps my legs in shape for baseball."

"Wynn learned to play good golf by playing with fellows older than him," his mother said. "He always has had a desire to improve and to learn. We would take him to the golf course at Columbiana and he would wait until a group of older men needed someone to fill a foursome, then he would join them."

"He would say that he could learn anything by playing with those who weren't any better than he was. He always has been anxious to learn, anxious to improve," she concluded.

ORDINANCE NO. 60050-18

TO PROVIDE FOR THE ISSUANCE OF A NOTE IN ANTICIPATION OF THE PURPOSE OF ACQUIRING, CLEARING, IMPROVING AND DEVELOPING REAL ESTATE FOR USE AS MUNICIPAL OFF-STREET PARKING FACILITIES, AND FURNISHING AND EQUIPPING THE SAME, AND DECLARING AN EMERGENCY.

WHEREAS, the greatly increased use of motor vehicles of all kinds has caused serious traffic congestion on the streets of the City of Salem and the parking of such vehicles on the streets has contributed to this congestion, interfering with the movement of the streets for the movement of traffic, the effective fighting of fires, the rapid movement of the police force and the maintenance of the streets, with resulting interference with the conduct of business and the threatened loss to the City in property, and

WHEREAS, the traffic conditions in the City of Salem are such that this council finds and determines that the acquisition, maintenance and operation of off-street parking lots for the sole purpose of parking motor vehicles are necessary and that such facilities will serve a public municipal purpose, and

WHEREAS, this Council has requested the Auditor to issue her certificate of the estimated life of the property hereinafter mentioned and the maximum maturity of the bonds hereinafter referred to and of notes to be issued in anticipation of said bonds, and the Auditor has certified to this Council such estimated life as at least five years and has further certified the maximum maturity of such bonds as twenty two years and such notes as five years, or one year if sold privately; and

NOW, THEREFORE, it is necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, property, health and safety and for the reason that the acquisition of off-street parking facilities is required forthwith in order to alleviate the traffic congestion on the streets of this city as heretofore recited, said ordinance shall be effective immediately upon its passage and approval by the Mayor as an emergency ordinance.

Section 1. That it is deemed necessary to issue bonds of the City of Salem, in the principal sum of $90,000 for the purpose of acquiring, clearing, improving and developing real estate for use as municipal off-street parking facilities, and furnishing and equipping the same.

Section 2. That said bonds shall be dated approximately June 1, 1961; shall bear interest at the rate of three and one-half per centum per annum, payable semi-annually until the principal sum is paid, and shall mature in fifteen substantially equal annual installments after their issuance.

Section 3. That it is necessary and that this Council hereby determines that a note in the principal amount of $90,000 shall be issued in anticipation of the issuance of said bonds. Such anticipatory note shall bear interest at the rate of three and one-half per centum (3 1/2%) per annum, payable at maturity, and shall be dated June 1, 1961, and shall mature on June 1, 1961.

Section 4. Such note shall be executed by the Auditor and shall bear the seal of the corporation, and shall be designated "Off-Street Parking Note," shall be payable at the office of the Treasurer of the City of Salem, and shall express on its face the purpose for which it is issued and that it is issued pursuant to this ordinance.

Section 5. Said note shall be first offered to the officer having charge of the Bond Retirement Fund of the City and if it shall not be taken by said officer, said note shall be sold and hereby awarded and sold to McDonald & Company, Cleveland, Ohio, at the par value thereof, and the Treasurer is hereby authorized and directed to deliver said note, when executed, to said purchaser upon payment of such purchase price and acceptance of the note by the said purchaser. The proceeds from such sale except any premium and accrued interest thereon shall be paid into the proper fund and used for the purpose aforesaid and for no other purpose. Any premium and accrued interest shall be transferred to the Bond Retirement Fund to be applied to the payment of the principal and interest of said note in the manner provided by law.

Section 6. Said note shall be the full general obligation of the City and the full faith, credit and revenue of such City are hereby pledged for the prompt payment of the same. The par value to be received from the sale of the bonds anticipated by said note and any excess fund resulting from the issuance of said note shall to the extent necessary be used only for the retirement of said note at maturity, together with interest thereon, and is hereby pledged for such purpose.

Section 7. During the year or years while such note runs there shall be levied on all the taxable property in the City of Salem, in addition to all other taxes, a direct tax annually not less than that which would have been levied if bonds had been issued without the prior issue of such note; provided, that the amount of such tax may be reduced by an amount not in excess of the surplus funds from the operation of the off-street parking facilities to be acquired with the proceeds of said note which are available for the payment of principal and interest upon said note and which are appropriated for such purpose. Said tax shall be and is hereby ordered computed, certified, levied and extended upon said note, and the same shall be irrevocably pledged for the payment of the principal and interest of said note or the bonds in anticipation of which it is issued, when and as the same fall due.

Section 8. It is hereby determined and recited that all acts, conditions and things necessary to be done, precedent to and in the issuing of said note, in order to make it a legal, valid and binding obligation of the City of Salem, have been, been done and performed in regular and due form and as required by law; and that no limitation of indebtedness or tax levied by the City of Salem, or constitutional, will have been exceeded in the issuance of said note.

Section 9. The Clerk is hereby directed to forward a certified copy of this ordinance to the County Auditor.

The Doctor Says

By HAROLD THOMAS HYMAN, M.D.

Operate on Tonsils Only When Essential

Now that we've discussed the functions of tonsillar and other lymphoid tissues, spoken of throat infections and their complications, and considered preventive and curative treatments by conservative means, we're faced with the problem of tonsillar destruction or surgical removal.

Before I tell you what I'm for and what I'm "agin" it's only fair to warn you that these are my personal opinions which may not be wholly acceptable or wholly unacceptable to my colleagues.

In other words, you'll get as many opinions about these individual points as there are doctors.

PLEASE THINK better rather than worse of us for our differing opinions. Each of us has a very personal attitude toward the treatment of disease. No one of us sees the other fellow's patients.

With differing philosophies and different patients, you couldn't expect us all to think alike unless we'd been brainwashed. And I rather imagine brainwashing a group of doctors might be a pretty tough assignment, even for Khrushchev.

ANYWAY, here's what I'm "agin":—

1. Attempts to "burn" tonsils. Reason: Leaves infected stump.
2. Attempts to destroy tonsils with radium or X-ray. Reason: Particularly in young children, it tends to stimulate malignancies, especially leukemia.
3. Clipping tonsils in office. Reason: Leaves infected stump as well as adenoids and lingual tonsil.
4. Routine tonsillectomy. Reason: Leaves infected stump as well as adenoids and lingual tonsil.

son: Deprives child of important defense outpost. Best proven by world-wide experiences with polio showing that the tonsillectomized child is more apt to develop paralysis of crippling or fatal nature than the child who still retains tonsils.

AND NOW, here's what I favor:

1. Operative removal only for good and sufficient reasons. That is to say abscess formation, obstruction to breathing, impairment of hearing (by adenoids), persistent cough from lingual tonsil, repeated sore throats for which no other explanation can be found, repeated bouts of rheumatic fever for which no other explanation can be found other than a preliminary "sore throat."
2. Operation to include, at all times, removal of entire lymphoid ring (right and left tonsils, lingual tonsil, adenoids).
3. Operation to be performed in fully equipped surgery of a general hospital with general anesthesia given by skilled anesthesiologist.
4. Operation to be postponed in the presence of any epidemic of infection but especially polio, streptococcal sore throat, meningitis, rheumatic fever, influenza, etc.

Finally, bear in mind that these are merely the recommendations of one physician. If your own doctor disagrees with these views, wholly or in part, I hope you'll be as tolerant of his opinions as I'd like him to be of mine. Court Rejects Plea Of Massillon Officer

CANTON, Ohio (AP)—Robert H. Dennison, a suspended Massillon policeman, has lost in his effort to bring about dismissal of a bribery indictment against him.

Common Pleas Judge George N. Graham Wednesday overruled both a motion to quash and a plea in abatement brought by Dennison.

The state's special grand jury hearing evidence of vice and gambling in Stark County indicted Dennison, 39, last month on a charge of accepting a bribe.

Judge Graham ruled that the indictment was not obtained under threats or intimidation as Dennison had charged.

Entertainers Booked For 'Sock Hop' Here

"Big" Wilson, Cleveland TV personality who will emcee the UCT-sponsored Sock Hop at the Salem Senior High School gymnasium on Saturday night, will present a one-hour variety show from about 10 to 11 p.m.

Among the entertainers are Sharon Lemieux and Bob Kirkpatrick, a dance team; Tazzi, a magician; Barbara King, song and dance artist, and Tom Conway, comedian.

The record hop will follow the Safety Parade, which is scheduled for 6:30 p.m. in the downtown section with 12 district high school bands among the participating units.

Following the floor show the selection of the 1960 Safety Queen will take place with Wilson and Ohio UCT officials, Grand Counselor E. L. Null and Ronald Roush, grand chaplain, both from Irondale, serving as final judges in the beauty contest.

Queen finalists are Judy Ann Whinnery from Salem, Beverly Rudabaugh from Beaver Local High, Ruth Vestfalls from Fairfield-Waterford, Lorrie Kerr from Goshen Union, Patricia Marshall of Leetonia, Elaine Sue Fargason of Salineville, Dianne Helen Moore of Springfield Local and Mary Alice Gause of United Local.

Miss Karen Klein, 1959 Safety Queen, is flying back to Salem from California to participate in the festivities and will present the trophy to the winner. Daniel E. Smith will present gifts from Salem merchants to all finalists.

The Sock Hop is a benefit affair, arranged primarily to help defray the costs of the annual UCT community-wide Vehicle Safety Check Program. Any profits over and above the costs of the safety program will be divided equally between the Cancer and Retarded Children's Fund, two charity drives actively sponsored by UCT here.

Dancers will be required to dance in either tennis shoes or in their socks to protect the gym floor. Tickets are on sale at Heddleston's Pharmacy and Fisher's News Agency as well as by all band directors participating in the parade.

27-Year-Old Mother Of Six Sentenced

LISBON — A 27-year-old mother of six children, living in Cleveland, was sentenced Thursday to the women's reformatory at Marysville after she was found guilty of violating the terms of her probation.

Common Pleas Judge Raymond S. Buzzard sentenced Mrs. Alberta Homan to consecutive terms of one to 20 years for auto larceny and driving without the owner's consent.

Mrs. Homan pleaded guilty to the theft of a car in Salem Nov. 19, 1957 and received probation on April 21, 1958.

Mrs. Homan was cited by Richard Rose, chief probation officer, after she was found guilty by Cuyahoga County Juvenile Court of contributing to the delinquency of 13 and 15-year-old boys.
